

2-way messaging to remind your patients

What good is a surgery with no patients?

Every year £600 million is wasted because of patients missing appointments. By far the biggest contributory reason is quite simply forgetfulness.

Remind your patientbase with Reminder Time and you can easily address this issue by sending patients a text or voice message before their appointment is due.

Compared to the cost of posting letters or having staff call patients, using Reminder Time is extremely cheap and effective. Messaging is instant, and because Reminder Time has 2-way built-in, the responses usually are too.

Your patients can give you the feedback you need directly and you can update your appointment book with the confidence that fewer slots will be wasted.
